

Sees Socialistic Economy Under Tax Exemptions

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—(CP)—G. S. Thorvaldson, president of the Income Tax Payers' Association and Conservative member of the Manitoba legislature for Winnipeg, said here last night that federal exemption from income tax of co-operatives, mutual insurance companies and state business enterprises was transferring Canada from a free enterprise to a "state-owned socialistic economy."

In an address to the Board of Trade club of Toronto, Mr. Thorvaldson said the national revenue was being deprived of more than $100,000,000 a year through federal exemptions from income tax.

"Patriotic duty" was before this was federal revenue from income tax was less than the right of the national income, while in the post-war period it might be 25 per cent of future national income.

In the year ended July 31, 1943, the prairie wheat pool elevator systems had earned $4,588,717, but they paid no taxes on this income.

Had the elevators system been a private company with the same earnings it would have had to pay $3,520,652 in taxes, leaving only $1,068,065 in net earnings for dividends, expansion and reserves.

ENTERPRISES UNTAXED
Enterprises of federal, provincial and municipal governments pay no income taxes, Mr. Thorvaldson said. In the Quebec government's appropriation of Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company and the fact that in the first month of 1944 171 Saskatchewan retail stores were converted from co-operative ownership into non-co-operative companies, Mr. Thorvaldson said a trend toward absorption of private enterprise by state and co-operative concerns.

"When this process has increased long enough, who will then remain to pay the income taxes now paid by private and corporate business?" he asked.

"The faster this absorption continues, the more taxes have to be borne by the private business that remains, resulting from there on in a vicious spiral whose end can only be a new type of monopoly control of the business of the nation."

Requests Separate Trial For Accused

WINNIPEG, Oct. 17.—(CP)—Defense counsel C. N. Kushner yesterday requested a separate trial for Arthur Evans, one of three men charged with the shotgun murder of S. W. Caughy last Tuesday.

Mr. Justice W. J. Major reserved judgment until Tuesday.

Evans, Frank Shura and William Dacko are being tried jointly on a charge of murder, Caughy, chief accountant at the North Winnipeg branch of the Bank of Commerce, was killed during an attempted holdup of the bank by three masked men.

Mr. Kushner made application in the court of King's Bench for a severance. He contended that by allowing the case to go to the jury as it now stands, it would be impossible for the jury to weigh the evidence without prejudice.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 17.—(CP)—Sgt. Oliver Matheson of the Winnipeg police in King's Bench court yesterday said William Dacko was one of the men seen running from a bank here after the shotgun murder of S. W. Caughy, bank accountant. Dacko is one of three men charged with the murder.

REGINA, Oct. 17.—(CP)—Attorney-General J. W. Corman announced last night the Saskatchewan government will provide facilities for looking after estates of Saskatchewan deceased servicemen without costs at least. Mr. Corman, speaking in a broadcast said where there is a will disposing of the estate it will be provided. If no will is in existence proceedings to have an administrator appointed will be taken by his department.

The attorney-general said that in some circles there is a misconception the CCF government's proposed court failure clause was not within the jurisdiction of a provincial legislature because it deals with interest.

CLAIM INCORRECT
The claim that the proposed legislation was ultra vires of the legislature was not correct, he said. The court failure clause would be essentially legislation dealing with farm security—a matter of property and civil rights—and interest will not be dealt with as such, said Mr. Corman.

The court failure clause in mortgages is one of the pieces of legislation proposed for the first session of the 10th legislature opening Thursday.

Mr. Corman also announced a proposed amendment to the local government board (special powers) act. The amendment would "give the board some real power in reorganizing the financial setup of cities and towns."

Officer Says Reich No Longer Has Any Reserve Air Power

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(CP)—Decline in the power of the German air force and the growing might of the Allied air arm was pointedly emphasized yesterday by Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory, RAF, 52-year-old Battle of Britain hero about to leave to become chief of the southeast Asia air command.

If the Germans had any reserve air power, he told a press conference, "they would have thrown it at us long ago."

Sir Stafford, who has been Gen. Eisenhower's air commander since the expeditionary air force was constituted last year, declared: "I think it must be evident to all that without the air forces our armies would never be where they are now."

LAUDS CANADIANS

The air chief praised the "tremendous contribution" of the RCAF in western Europe since D-Day. Canadian fighter squadrons, he said, were the spearhead of the Allied air forces when the landings in France were made in June and they were the first to operate from bases in the Normandy beachhead.

Altogether the work of RAF Bomber Command—in which nearly 30 per cent of the air crews are Canadian—had been "terrific."

Referring to the roles of Dominion air forces and the various European groups in the RAF, Sir Stafford said the RCAF had done "more than any of the others."

Reviewing the records of the British and American tactical forces, based on the continent, Sir Stafford disclosed that during August alone they had destroyed 87 German tanks, 1241 motor transport vehicles, 1413 locomotives, 5508 freight cars and 406 river barges.

An estimated 7,000 German dead were found, he said, among wrecked transports in the neighborhood of the Seine crossing, where 3,000 vehicles were hit in three days by the RAF.

He asserted the defeat of the German counter-attack at Mortain, which paved the way for the rapid sweep across France, "was very largely the work of the air forces," which he credited with preventing enemy armor from breaking through.

BY JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Biggest mystery of the current U.S. football campaign is: What happened to the Navy? In pre-season estimates, the Midshipmen of Annapolis as one of the most powerful eleven ever to wear the blue and gold. Prognosticators unanimously picked them to repeat for the Lambert trophy, emblematic of eastern supremacy. Many enthusiasts even reached for the laurel crown of national championship.

It seemed nothing—probably not even Notre Dame—could stop this dreadnought, which had suffered only one defeat last season—by Notre Dame. Hagberg's outfit seemed to have everything—and in depth.

Other coaches gazed with green eyes at the galaxy of talent on the Sevens.

BEATEN IN OPENER

HOWEVER, this highly touted Navy team was beaten in its opening game, 21-14, by North Carolina Pre-Flight. Whereupon the staunch experts concluded: "Goah, those Carolina Coachmen must have the most powerful service team in the South."

Which apparently was an over-estimate, because it came to pass that only last Saturday, at Camp Pre-Flight was held a 13-13 tiebreaker by Virginia, which had already had succumbed to North Carolina State, which had succumbed to Clemson, which had been beaten by Georgia Tech. It is incidentally, says enigma Georgia Tech at Atlanta Saturday.

Navy did better in its second game, beating Penn State 34-14. A predictable performance, but it was no means startling. Penn State has a mediocre team this year, as witness its last defeat by Cornell and its evasive victory over weak Franklin and Marshall.

FORCED TO LIMIT

In the third navy encounter, last Saturday at Baltimore, the midshipmen were forced to limit Duke to a 7-0 victory over Duke. Duke had come into this contest undefeated. If Duke had a team that was a national threat—Navy's difficulties with Blue Devils might have been understood. But Duke already had been humbled by Pennsylvania, and by the same North Carolina Coachmen that upset Navy.

Actually, the Midshipmen were lucky to emerge from the Duke game without a defeat or a dead-end. They fumbled six times, losing the ball to Duke on three of those occasions. Their running attack lacked verve and effectiveness. They completed one pass. Duke dominated play in the last half and drove deep into navy territory three times.

Reverberated observers barked their eyes and asked: "Is this the same navy team that was picked to win the national title? Yes, it's the same outfit, but something apparently has happened to it. Just what has happened to navy is the biggest mystery of current football. Perhaps Georgia Tech's unbeaten Eagles can come up with the answer when they make a scientific investigation at Atlanta Saturday.

American League To Open Tonight

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Cleveland's Barons open American League play here tonight against Pittsburgh's Pirates. Coach Bill (Bud) Cook has snuggled shuffling his roster in an attempt to come up with another league-leading combination.

The season yet may see another George Aronoff to Leo Richards at a two-day berth. For the opener, Cook has picked Lou Fisher, Leo Cunningham and Willie Davis for the first line and Leo Gaspard for the one-liner and Earl Bartholomew for another.

The common Indian curse is probably responsible for several thousand deaths annually.

I Saw Today

Edmontonians may not be aware of the fact that their street car service, offered at five cents a ride, is the lowest fare charged in any Canadian city, and unequalled in the west excepting in Regina. Do you think that other cities, especially those larger than Edmonton, should operate their systems at this low rate?
